

Contents

Letters to the Editor 8

COMMUNITY

Readers' Poll 8

Community Happenings 40

TJH Speaks with Ari Brown, Candidate for Assembly 100

TJH Speaks with David Lobl, Candidate for Assembly 104

NEWS

Global 12

National 30

That's Odd 36

ISRAEL

Israel News 22

Rescuing Anna by Rafi Sackville 96

JEWISH THOUGHT

Rabbi Wein on the Parsha 84

Looking Forward by Rav Moshe Weinberger 86

The Jewish Approach to Leadership by Rabbi Shmuel Reichman 90

Delving into the Daf by Rabbi Avrohom Sebrov 94

PEOPLE

My Mission to Ukraine by Shoshana Rockoff 108

Against All Odds by Avi Heiligman 132

HEALTH & FITNESS

Love Your Kids by Dr. Deb Hirschhorn 116

The Up-and-Coming Chickpea by Cindy Weinberger, MS RD CDN 118

FOOD & LEISURE

The Aussie Gourmet: Salmon Pistachio 124

LIFESTYLES

Teen Talk 110

Dating Dialogue, Moderated by Jennifer Mann, LCSW 112

Parenting Pearls 120

JWOW! 122

Your Money 140

Still Counting Down by Rivki D. Rosenwald Esq., CLC, SDS 142

HUMOR

Centerfold 82

POLITICAL CROSSFIRE

Notable Quotes 126

Madeleine Albright Shaped a Generation by David Ignatius 129

Free Speech Gets Tossed by Marc A. Thiessen 130

A General's Retirement is a Chance to Reflect by David Ignatius 131

CLASSIFIEDS

134

Dear Editor,

Dear Editor,

I once heard a rav say that you are exactly where you're supposed to be. Another time he discussed the notion of the difference between those who have a "piece" of olam haba versus those who are a ben olam haba. One who has a piece of olam haba can lose it, but a ben olam haba is one who is rooted in the Next World as if it's a yerusha. This person will be welcomed to the Next World as a son who belongs.

How does one reconcile the idea that you are presently exactly where you're supposed to be in concordance with the fact that the goal is to be a ben olam haba, which requires mammoth growth and change?

Perhaps from a life perspective you are, in fact, where you need to be in terms of where you were born, what your past was like, how you became what you became, where you live, who you are presently interacting with, what you're accomplishing, and what kind of change you're causing. But regardless of this, if you want to be a ben olam haba who has an indelible piece in the Next World, whereby you will be celebrated when you arrive, you must be pushing your spiritual cylinders at full blast.

So, indeed, you are where you're supposed to be, but to become a permanent member in the Next World, a tireless spiritual engagement in learning, mitzvot and chesed must be implemented. This ability to become a ben olam haba, even when man's birth embodies inherent impurity as Tazriah connotes, is celebratory.

Steven Genack

Dear Editor,

I am so sick and tired of our "Jewish leaders" urging our community to support the Democrat candidate for office. Insanity is defined as doing the same thing over and over again and expecting different results. What exactly have Democrat elected officials delivered for our community? On the plus side, they throw a pittance in to our tzedakah boxes, i.e., they throw some money at our Yeshivas, community organizations and shuls. I can't think of anything else. On the minus side, the list is long, very long. Let's mention a few, confiscatory taxes anyone? How about unchecked crime. Unscientific mandates, open borders, and a blind eye towards increasing anti-Semitism. Have you heard anything from the self-described "shomer Yisroel" or any of his ilk? Maybe I missed it.

Are you in favor of the woke cancel culture? What about bail reform? Were you born in the United States or are a legal immigrant and naturalized Citizen as I am, you have less rights and freedoms than the multitudes streaming over our southern border. The list goes on and on.

I am not a skill for Republicans. I have plenty of problems with them as well, but in my humble

Continued on page 10

Readers Poll

Would you rather go deep-sea diving or bungee jumping?

81% / 19%

Deep-sea diving / Bungee jumping